Our Services, Employees and Supply Chain

We are not only committed to high ethical standards and sustainable business practices in relation to responsible investments and business practices, but are also committed to leading our firm in a principled manner.

The quality of our services is driven by our employees. Our employees are our most important asset and the key to our success.

Where service providers are user or services are outsourced in line with contractual as well as regulatory laws and regulations, our suppliers are known, reputable, professional and/or regulated service providers. Our material suppliers to our UK office in London are primarily providers of office equipment as well as administrative and secretary services.

Our Slavery and Human Trafficking Risks

In our regulated investment management business, the risk of slavery and human trafficking is, by definition, very low. We can only hire employees with appropriate training, experience and without a criminal record. Therefore, we are competing with other service providers to attract the best professionals and provide them with a demanding and rewarding working environment.

In our supply chain, the risk of slavery and human trafficking is also very limited because our service providers are known, reputable, professional and/or regulated service providers.

Our Slavery and Human Trafficking Prevention Endeavours

We endeavour to prevent slavery and human trafficking in our business and supply chains by:

- periodically reviewing and adapting our company policies to raise awareness for and reflect our endeavours in the prevention of slavery and human trafficking;
- subjecting new prospective employees to strict checks on their identity, references, qualifications and criminal records without exception;
- training the relevant staff involved in procurement;
- obtaining services only from known, reputable, professional and/or regulated services providers and suppliers;
- including appropriate contractual language in our service and supplier contracts;
- periodically subjecting our supplier and service procurement processes to internal audit spot checks.

Further Steps

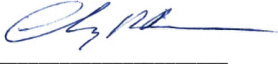

We continue to keep our relevant policies and their implementation under active review, to be alert to the risks of slavery and human trafficking in our own business or in our supply chains and to be ready to take appropriate action promptly to address any concerns that may arise.

We have started an internal global project to review and streamline our procurement processes and gain visibility into potential gaps and areas of improvement.

This Statement

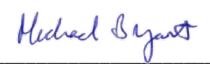

This statement is made pursuant to section 54(1) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and was approved by the Board of Directors of Partners Group UK Limited. It constitutes our modern slavery and human trafficking statement for the business year 2020.
